“This institute is a reference point for the study and treatment of dangerous infectious diseases that spread quickly,” explains Alessandra Nicoletti, president of VDA Trailers, “and in these recent weeks it has been designated from the start as a reference point for treating the most critical patients suffering from COVID-19.”

“We consider it essential to make a material contribution to the efforts already place to combat a pandemic that involves everyone, including us,” she goes on; “that’s why we’ve decided to donate all the proceeds to the Sacco Hospital, which is working on all fronts in the fight against COVID-19, including caring for the sick on a day-to-day basis, studying the virus and carrying out serological tests to come up with an effective vaccine and a cure for the disease as soon as possible”.
